VENDETTA SEEN IN MURDER OF OHIOAN

Bullet-Riddled Body of Man Held as Slayer Found Near Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—The bullet-riddled body of Philip Catalano, 37, was found at Richmond and Cleveland roads, Lakewood village, early today. Catalano was under $20,000 bond pending a hearing tomorrow in police court on a charge of killing Pat Colono, 31, on Aug. 2 last. Police expressed the belief that Catalano was slain in revenge by a vendetta.

An abandoned car standing nearby was held over to the police. The bullet-riddled body was found by a patrolman who was on duty at the time. The body was found in a car which had been abandoned near the intersection of Richmond and Cleveland roads. The car was found with the engine running and the doors open. The body was found in the back seat of the car. The car was found with the engine running and the doors open. The body was found in the back seat of the car.

This Unusual World

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Major David Hirschfeld, who heard in one day 100 cases on both sides of the 20th century charges against him for murder, was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—If I were mayor of Paris for 24 hours, I would turn the city upside down. Paris is no place for a decent woman since a decent woman is not respected there," according to Mayor Frank X. Schwab of Buffalo, who has just returned from Europe.

Springfield, Mass. Aug. 17.—Mailed from Ellington Center N. Y. Aug. 19: A postcard received by Mrs. Clara C. Marion of Ellington Center, N. Y. Mrs. Marion had to pay an increased postage fee of one cent before she could receive the card.

Chatham, Mass. Aug. 17.—During an electric storm here a bolt of lightning knocked several sheets of paper from the hand of Station Agent Simpson. Simpson was unhurt though momentarily bewildered.

New York, Aug. 17.—New York university is to give the first college course in accident prevention. The course is designed to equip students to become leaders in a new field.

Nethelght, N. J. Aug. 17.—Bathers at nearby Jersey beaches were forced to use a gasoline bath afterward. A black cat of oil covered them, the residue pumped into the ocean from oil burning vessels.

Stockton, Cal. Aug. 17.—Conductor Jim Burgess of the Sierra railway 4555 here passes gratitude. A Plymouth Rock hen rode with him, cackled thanks and hopped off the train at the end of the line, leaving behind one egg in token of her gratefulness.

DISCOVER BOGUS NOTE
Budapest, Aug. 17.—The Budapest police have discovered a 100,000 krona counterfeit note, made entirely by hand, with colored inks. It is estimated that it took four days to make the note, which is worth $150.

FOUR BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED BY CITY CLERK
Isaly Dairy Co. To Construct $1,000 Garage; Others Plan Remodeling

Four building permits valued at $1,400, were issued by City Clerk H. K. Blaser, late yesterday afternoon. A permit for a garage valued at $1,000 was issued to the Isaly Dairy Co. The garage is to be of concrete block, 12 feet high and 22 by 70. It will be built on N. Prospect, adjoining the company's plant at that street.

W. H. Sanderson, 273 Park Boulevard, was issued a permit to remodel his dwelling. The cost of remodeling was placed at $800.

Another permit to remodel a dwelling was issued to Edna L. Jennings, 211 Cumulus av., value $200.

A permit to build an addition to a dwelling, value $150, was issued to A. Sloan, 145 Lincoln av.

JACOB ROTHFUSS FINED ON GUN DRAWING CHARGE
Enters Plea of Guilty Before Mayor Earl Hazen; Pays $10 Fine

Jacob Rothfuss, 51, of 303 W. Center st., was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Earl Hazen late yesterday afternoon following his plea of guilty to the charge of drawing a gun.

He paid his fine and was released. Rothfuss was arrested at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon following charges filed against him by Charles L. Turner, who alleged that Rothfuss had threatened him with a gun Saturday afternoon.

IDENTIFY BODY OF DROWNING VICTIM
Middleton, Aug. 17.—The body of a man found in the Miami River near Hamilton, Ohio, Sunday has been identified as that of Joseph Huber, 59, recently employed as a foreman at the Exelco Paper Mills, two miles north of here. Huber and his wife were divorced several years ago. There are four children living with the mother. Officials have not ascertained whether Huber was drowned accidentally or killed. For months past he has lived in a small hut near Rockdale Dam below Hamilton.

HOLD UNDER MANN ACT
Cincinnati, Aug. 17.—Edward C. Peoples, 35, Toledo candy salesman, today was free under $2,000 bond to the federal grand jury, eastern district of Kentucky, charged with violation of the Mann act. He is said to have brought a Lexington, Ky., girl to Cincinnati on promises of marriage, and then to have deserted her here.

BODY IDENTIFIED
Steubenville Aug. 17.—A body found floating down the Ohio River at Kings north of here, was believed by Coroner A. L. Bell to be that of Matthew H. Hagan, 50, Toronto barber, who disappeared last week.

5 unique advantages over old-type soaps, creams, powders

In 5 distinct ways, this unique preparation excels over all others. You'll note them all first time you use it. It has won millions of men from old-time preparations. Its success is a national sensation. Men are literally flocking to its use.

1—It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.

2—It softens the beard in one minute.

3—The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.

4—The extra strong bubbles support the hairs for cutting, where weak bubbles let them fall down.

5—The blend of palm and olive oils brings fine after-effects. It makes the cream also a lotion.

Our Mutual Problem

The most important item in the "high cost of living" for the railroads and for every individual citizen is the tax bill.

Last year the tax collector took 5.9 cents out of every dollar earned by the railroads. An estimate for 1926, based on the first four months of this year, indicates that more than six cents of every dollar received by the railroads as revenue will be paid out in taxes. This tax bill, over which the railroads have absolutely no control, is increasing at an unprecedented rate, absorbing a large proportion of the saving effected by the carriers in the last five years through their program of efficiency and economy in operation.

Railroad taxes, now amounting to a little more than one million dollars a day, do not come from increased Federal burdens but from the enormously heavier taxes being constantly imposed by local governments.

The railroads are making no plea for exemption or favoritism. The bulk of the benefit from reduced taxes would go to farmers, merchants, home-buyers, business men—to every class of citizenry. Extravagant borrowing and spending continues to increase state, city, county and town taxes. These taxes fall on every home, on every store, on every garage, on every farmer, on every salaried, on every public utility within the territory of the tax-imposing bodies.

Economy in local government and a consequent reduction of taxes, to be reflected in a lower cost of living, is the problem of every citizen, as it is, likewise, the problem of the railroads. In the final analysis, reasonable taxation in any community can be achieved only through the individual thought and effort of a majority of the citizens of that community.

The Primary Vote.
Last Tuesday's primary elections throughout Ohio gave further evidence of the need for a new system of selecting candidates for public office. The average vote polled in the combined Republican and Democratic primaries was only thirty per cent of normal in the state.

This means that a very small minority of qualified voters of Ohio again selected the candidates to represent their respective parties in the November election. And this in spite of the fact that candidates for governor and other important state offices, United States senator, representatives to congress and all important county offices were nominated. Are the candidates selected the ones the majority of Ohio's Republicans and Democrats want to represent them? Will they, in every case, be responsible to the party which they represent in the event they are elected? The first question can not be answered with any degree of certainty, but it is certain, from past experience, that those nominated by a minority vote do not feel the party responsibility that they should.

Lack of interest in Ohio primary elections is not new, but it is growing to such serious proportions that a remedy must be provided. Not many voters knew the qualifications of one-tenth of the seventy odd candidates on the Republican state ticket last Tuesday. It was merely a maze of confusing names which greeted their eyes as they marked their ballots. Here and there some one knew something about one or two of the candidates, but another candidate might have been much better fitted for the office, but the cost and the time required to put himself properly before the voters in every precinct in the state was prohibitive. As a result many voters throughout Ohio cast their ballots blindly for many candidates. And thousands of others not interested in primaries, remained away from the polls.

Some have said that the Ohio primary law, and not the primary system as such, is at fault. But the same situation exists in other states. Voters all over the country are staying at home on primary days. The remedy lies in the repeal of the primary system and the substitution thereof of the convention system, properly guarded so that accredited delegates chosen by voters may select the candidates to represent their parties in the general elections. This system, with improvement over the old convention plan, is the logical and sane way out of the primary decline. It is used with success in selecting the party representatives for president and no one will question the fitness of candidates who have been selected by all parties in this manner for many years. Voters of Ohio demonstrated their unwillingness to vote at primary elections. Why go on with a system they do not want and do not take seriously?

To Win Out Over Nervousness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Four Richard wrote in his alarm: "I never saw an off-removed fear. Nor yet an off-removed family. That those so well as those that settled be." What is there about human nature that makes folks want to go somewhere? What spirit of restlessness is there within us that makes us want to be constantly on the move?

We are not willing to leave well enough alone. We fuss with our lives and pick at our condition, unwilling to take things as they are.

Of course, I realize that what has been called "the divine discontent" has much to do with human progress. If men were ever satisfied with things as they are, we would be living under the miserable conditions our ancestors endured.

But is there not a limit to the "off-removed," the desire for change?

Restlessness is a curse to contentment and to health. We can not drive it away, never settle down to happiness in the surroundings fate has given us. Surely may be described as the art of adaptability. The sacred persons are those who accept situations and, under the conditions are really correctable, take them as they are.

You may think it is merely an evidence of stupidity or laziness to be able to do this. You may have no patience with this doctrine. But really, my friend, isn't it far better to take life in this spirit than to be fuming and fretting and scolding about it?

"Nervousness" is the word used to describe the underlying causes of restlessness. Watch some persons. They can't sit still a minute. They wriggle and twist and turn in the chairs. They cross and uncross their knees. They tap the floor with their toes. They beat tattoo with their finger tips. They make funny noises with their lips and "bat" their eyes.

How can you expect those so afflicted to thrive? They can not thrive so well as those that settled be. They fire their muscles, drain their nerve supplies, and lower their vital powers by those unnecessary performances.

There are underlying causes for nervousness. It is not uncommon to find restlessness and other symptoms of irritability, as accompaniments of ill health. The physical disability may not be readily found. But it is there and careful seeking will locate it.

There may be passing things which cause you anger and bodily distress. In consequence you feel as if you could fly. But when you have a chronic "grouch," and have a chip on your shoulder all the time, there is something wrong with your bodily system.

Suddenly acquired discontent, with inability to enjoy yourself to your duties, unwillingness to do and all other evidences of "nervousness," should cause you to pause. You should keep still long enough to figure out what it wrong with you.

You won't progress in material or physical things if you can't "stay put." Take my Richard's case, you can not afford to be off-removed. Get rid of the causes of your restlessness. For restless persons never "thrive" so well as those that settled be.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES
AN ANXIOUS READER. Q—What causes a lump?

A—Cause is, not known; simply is a failure of certain centers in the lip to close perfectly. Heredity plays a small part.

F. H. Q—What causes excess salivation?

A—Hyperactivity of the stomach is often the cause of this condition. You should correct your diet. Avoid constitution. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. S. Q—What causes a flapping sound in my ears?

A—This may be due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. Should have special attention. For full details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A READER. Q—What is the cause of bad breath?

A—There are many causes for this condition, such as constipation, indigestion, nasal catarrh, diseased tonsils and decayed teeth. A careful examination will locate the source of the trouble. — Copyright, 1926.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicine, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. A Familiar Phrase.
Perhaps the most frequently encountered just at present in the political circles in which we move is as follows. We look forward to the November election with the utmost confidence of overwhelming victory.—Ohio State Journal.

The sun shall no more go down; neither shall thou withdraw thyself; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended.—Isaiah 60:20.

Poems That Live.
"HUNTING SONG."
Waken, lords and ladies gay!
On the mountain dawns the day;
All the jolly chase is here
With hawk and horse and huntingpear;
Hounds are in their couples yelling,
Hawks are whistling, horns are knelling, Merrily, merrily, mingle they,
"Waken, lords and ladies gay!"

Waken, lords and ladies gay!
The mist has left the mountain grey;
Springlets in the dawns are gleaming;
Diamonds on the brake are gleaming;
And foresters have busy been
To track the buck in thicket green;
Now we come to chant our lay,
"Waken, lords and ladies gay!"

Waken, lords and ladies gay!
To the greenwood haste away;
We saw you where the lilies,
Flirt of foot and tail of size;
We can show the marks he made
When "against the oak his antlers frayed";
You shall see him brought to bay;
"Waken, lords and ladies gay!"

Louder, louder chant the lay,
Waken, lords and ladies gay!
Tune your youth and mirth and glee Run a chase as well as we;
Time, stern huntswoman who can halt,
Staunch as bound and feet as hawk;
Think of this, and rise with day,
Gentle lords and ladies gay!

—Sir Walter Scott.

Warning Against Typhoid.
(Hygeia.)
The increase in the prevalence of typhoid fever is often directly proportional to the increase in touring by motor car, according to a statement issued by the Illinois department of public health.

In 1925, the disease spread into eight states from polluted drinking water of one small town in Indiana. Six cases in Illinois were traced to this source.

The motor car takes large numbers of people from their own protected community into others in which the sanitary conditions are not safe. Every person must take the responsibility for the safety of his own food and water at such a time.

The tourist season is open. It would be well for the public to remember that vaccination protects every one, while cleanliness and sanitation, equally protective, are not always practiced by others.

Potato an American Plant.
(Adventure Magazine.)
The potato is a native of elevated districts of tropical and subtropical America. It has been found growing wild in the Andes of South America, Mexico and the Rocky mountain region of North America. The potato was cultivated and used as food long anterior to the discovery of America by Europeans. It seems to have been taken to Europe by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century, and spread from Spain into the Netherlands, Burgundy and Italy, but only to be cultivated in a few gardens as a curiosity, and not for general use as a food.

It appears to have been taken to Ireland from Virginia by Hawkins in 1565; and to England by Sir Francis Drake in 1585, without attracting much notice, till it was a third time imported from America by Sir Walter Raleigh.

What Do You Want To Know? Ask Haskin.

So right. Here is a great information service that is free to every one. Write your question plainly and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Address the Marion Star Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q How does a buzzard sail against the wind without flapping its wings? A. D.

A. The biological survey says that the buzzard is able to move or less imperceptible movements of different parts of the wings, to take advantage of air currents.

Q How do jellyfish travel? How do they reproduce? R. D.

A. They swim by alternate dilatation and contraction of the disk or umbrella, and progress mostly by drifting with the surface currents. They reproduce by eggs.

Q When was Sunday first considered the first day of the week, D. V.

A. In 321 the Roman emperor, Constantine, who had been converted to Christianity, issued an edict protecting the Christians, and also changing the observance of the Sabbath as a legal day of rest from the Sabbath, which had formerly been observed on the seventh day of the week, to the first day of the week, commemorating the resurrection of Christ from the dead. Since that time the Sabbath, or Sunday, has been reckoned as the first day by the majority of Christians.

Q How and when were dice clubs first organized? V. A.

A. The dice club which originated in some meetings at the house of Mr. Robert Smith in 1783, at which models, medals, glasses, canons and catches were sung after dinner. The meetings were subsequently held at Dr. Beecher's and other houses until, in 1787, it was resolved to establish a society to be called "The Dice Club," the first public meeting of which took place at the Newmarket Coffee House on Saturday, December 22, 1787.

Q What was meant by usury in the Bible? R. L.

A. The word, usury, has come in modern English to mean excessive interest upon money loaned, either direct or at least oppressive. In the Scriptures, however, the word did not bear this sense, but meant simply interest of any kind upon money. The Jews were forbidden by the Law of Moses to take interest from their brethren, but were permitted to take it from foreigners. The practice of mortgaging land, sometimes at exorbitant interest grew up among the Jews during the captivity. In direct violation of the law.

Q Why are Web-back mantles so called? U. S. R.

A. They are named for their inventor, Aver von Webback.

Q In what sort of place should leather bags be kept? T. F. W.

Dr. Kung, very wise Chinaman, a schoolmaster of this writer, is now lecturing in America. Dr. Kung has much to say about the interference of outside nations. He calls no names, but one is led to believe that the activity of Japan and Russia in supplying warlike facilities in China with arms does not please him.

It is usually better to let home folks settle their own quarrels.

Knights of Pythias, meeting in national convocation, may decide to enlist in the war against proxy in the Philippines. The medical work there needs money and support. Under present methods of treatment only ten per cent of the victims show permanent cures. To support this work will be a great and creditable undertaking for any lodge.

William H. Hoover, scientist on the staff of the Smithsonian Institution, leaves for a two-year stay on a Central African mountain. He will measure the sun's heat with his variations. The most remarkable thing about Mr. Hoover's trip is the fact that he will take his little daughter with him. She is very little—only sixteen months old.

I find her more interesting than my career," says the young scientist whose wife died recently. "If I could not have had her with me I would not have gone."

And he has made up his own mind as to what is really important in his life.

Jimmy Dunn, star reporter for the London Daily Mail, gives Americans—especially visiting artists—something to think about. Visiting newspaper plants in America, Dunn is shocked by the high pressure under which work is done. Then he adds: "I find, too, that I can work better here than I ever could abroad. It's in the air."

Many ambitious young people in this country think they must go abroad to do really good work. Many others, discovering they love to travel, invent a reason for traveling. They may listen with interest to this very frank young Englishman who finds the United States so stimulating that he can work better here than he can abroad.

New York Day by Day.
BY O. O. MINTYRE.
New York, Aug. 17.—Columbus circle is to Broadway today the old Herald square of yesterday—the pivot upon which the metropolitan carousel spins. It is a churning oasis for pedestrians used to cramped sidewalks and the heaviest traffic point in the city.

One may leave it to emerge into the light of lower Broadway lash of lights, or into the sudden cool night of the park. Or into the just and jungle of Eighth avenue. Or the subdued tenement district leading off to the North river.

All types of New Yorkers drift hour by hour the Circle and spill about in a kaleidoscopic mélange. It is a haven for the professional flirt, transatlantic pretenders, soap box propagandists, leather lifters, and the great army of the lonely.

In busy hours it requires about twenty traffic policemen to keep pedestrians and vehicles moving. It has all sorts of restaurants from white tiled burry-ups to the swank Chinese. There are innumerable shops of one shape whose windows glitter with jewelry, fruit, flowers, souveniers and the like.

In all the cliff-chaff there is the solidity of gigantic skyscrapers with offices of some of the most important enterprises in the world. Columbus circle a few years ago was a mere "turn in the road," but with the building boom northward its real estate became among the most valuable in the city. Nowadays it is a ways torn up.

Most of New York living above Seaview, Second street on the west side drifts through the Circle during the twenty-four hour day. It is the starting point and wind-up of innumerable parades. Nearly every hour an ambulance careens in from a side street.

At night heavy lights spurt across the park, and the effect is brighter than day. The hub-bub rarely summers down until long after midnight.

I am told of a deformed beggar in Columbus circle who has all pockets tightly sewed up and at intervals a sort of padrone comes up and empties the coins from the outstretched tin cup.

One might imagine a grass cutter would starve in New York, but there are a number of expert their trade is almost a profession. They attend to the hidden gardens that bloom in the courts of private homes and apartment houses. Most of the horticultural activities are to be found in the so-called "Fashionable Fifties" although there are a number on Riverside drive. One of the famous gardens is that of Thomas Fortune Ryan at Fifth avenue and Sixty-Eighth street, and the largest terrace lawn and garden exposed to the public is that surrounding the home of Charles Schwab on the "Drive"—with its quaint sculpting in bronze of a puddler—symbolical of the sterling's humble beginning. There are many other rural surprises in Manhattan blooming prettily with the finest flowers, but they are not to be viewed by the houseguests.

One of the tenement uplift movements is to supplant trees and flowers for clotheslines flapping with wet wash and ashtrays. But tenement dwellers show little interest. The stink of charity is there. They prefer to have their little window sill plants and most of them do—a rather pathetic effort of beauty to rise above the squalor.

Then there are the Lady Bountifuls impelled by worthy motives, of course, who visit the slums and experience an inward glow of righteousness, but those submerged are rarely pleased with this idea. Poverty is bad enough, but to have it subjected in even kindly scrutiny is worse.—Copyright, 1926.

Today's Events.
Tuesday, August 17, 1926.
Fifteen years ago today business in England was brought to a standstill by a strike of 160,000 railway workers.

The annual Southern Retail Merchants' conference met in Richmond today for a session of four days.

Philadelphia is the meeting place today of the annual convention of the National Shortland Reporters' association.

The National Association of Poultry Inspectors and Investigators opened its annual convention today at State College, Pennsylvania.

In a statewide primary today the Democrats of Mississippi will choose their candidates for congress and the major offices to be filled at the fall election.

In the Democratic primaries in Wyoming today Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, first woman governor, has no opposition for renomination. Frank C. Emerson, state engineer, and Frank E. Lucas, secretary of state, are contesting for the Republican nomination.

Peter F. O'Keefe, of Boston, originator of the "universal slogan," "Say it with Flowers," is to be given a gold medal by the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists at its annual convention which met in New Orleans today for a three-day session.

Who's Who and Why.
MYERS Y. COOPER.

Although unknown outside his state until his recent nomination for the governorship by Ohio Republicans, Myers Y. Cooper is likely to become a national figure in politics if victorious at the polls this fall. His friends are already beginning to suggest that he would be a cool running mate for Coolidge if the latter is nominated two years hence.

Cooper aspired to be a teacher and went to a normal school, but just as he stood on the threshold of a teacher's career he changed his mind and entered the real estate business. He bought land on the outskirts of Cincinnati, what is now Hyde Park. Staked out lots and built houses—2,500 of them. Today Hyde Park is the most populous as well as the most popular suburb of Cincinnati, and Cooper is a millionaire.

Cooper will be fifty-three on November 25. He was born near Norwalk, Ohio. His father was a public school teacher for fifty-two years. Cooper is a Sunday-school worker, of the faith of Disciples of Christ, and an ardent Jew. He never was in politics before, except as a member of the Republican Advisory Committee of Cincinnati.

Today's Worst Story.
BY WILL ROGERS.

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by another Englishman. Did you ever hear an English joke? Well, hang on to your ears; we are going over a cliff.

A man lost his wife. Her body was borne to the grave by friends and neighbors, the husband walking behind the coffin with his face set in a melancholy cast. The gate of the churchyard was very narrow and the coffin was jammed against the gatepost. From the interior of the coffin came a hollow groan.

Instantly there was a great commotion. The lid was torn off the coffin and the doctor was called for. As a result the wife completely recovered from the attack of catalepsy which had been mistaken for death and was restored to her husband. She lived for ten years before dying again.

Once again they bore her body to the grave, with the husband walking slowly behind. Just as they neared the graveyard he stepped forward and said to the pallbearers in a most anxious tone: "Boys, mind that gatepost!"

SEEKS PARTITION

Willis H. Hitt 742 Kentucky filed a petition in Marion Court asking for the partition of two lots in Marion in which he claims one third in interest.

Defendants named in the suit are Alta A. Landers, Margaret C. Owen, Rube C. Owen, Martha Hatch, John
J. Landers, Susan Hatch and Louis
Meyer.

The court has ordered that J.
W. Jacoby and Edna Jacoby (Kut-savage) deliver to a mortgagee on a Marion property to secure a $200 note. The property with the mortgage attached was later transferred to Philip and Della Stutler, who assumed the mortgage. The petition state that it is alleged judgment for that amount is a lien on the farm.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT MELLETT CASE

county jail here on a warrant charging liquor conspiracy.

From behind the locked doors came shouts "I didn't do it" and "It wasn't me" and other passionate remarks.

Andrew Pretek of Canton, the third man for whom a federal warrant charging liquor conspiracy was issued last Saturday, walked into the federal building here today and gave himself up to United States Marshal George Stauffer.
Pretek will be jailed immediately, according to word from the conference chamber.

Sensational disclosures that will rock the state of Ohio were promised today by Starnes when he questioned Mazer. Canton police told about the killing of Mellett.

When we get through with Louis Mazer we will have the goods on every member of the underworld clique that planned the assassination, the district attorney declared today. We are going to clean up this case if we have to arrest every man, woman, and child in Canton.

Implicates 10 Others

The district attorney predicted that 10 or more others would be sitting in side Mazer before the case was closed.

The mills of the gods grind slowly but exceeding fine, but in the case of Louis Mazer, the mill of justice is grinding fast.

When the investigators captured
Steve Koschok he told them that Mazer had driven the auto which carried him and Pat McDermott from Massillon to Canton where they inspected Mellett's home and planned the program of the slaying.

Identifies Picture

A picture of Mazer was identified by Koschok as that of the man who tried to hire him to beat up Mellett.
Koschok said he got cold feet and backed out of the murder and Koschok was taken yesterday to the home of a woman known as Mazer's girl. There he identified a dog as the one that was in the auto the night of the Massillon-Canton ride. The house on the front of which Mazer stopped the car to let the dog out.

Mazer authorities said he admitted that he owned a Spanish made pearl handled revolver believed to be the one from which the fatal shot was fired.
A member of the Canton police department cleaned the gun the day after Mellett was shot. Joseph Joseph Chicago, clean up attorney said after an investigation.

When the news of the murder reached Koschok in Cleveland he consulted an attorney and then came to Canton where he told Sgt. Slater. Slater attorney in charge of the Stark county inquiry a story which gave vent to the present action in the case.

Accompanied McDermott

He said that he was engaged to help beat up an editor and that he went to Massillon with Pat McDermott, now jailed as the key man in the slaying.
Mazer Koschok declared through the two things to Canton in an auto hired then the Mellett home and gave them their instructions about a week before the actual murder.

Koschok however refused to go through with the crime and there is evidence that has been checked by detectives that has convinced them that there was a possibility of Mazer having taken Koschok's place.

Mazer was commonly known in Canton as the right hand man of Carl

FOUR-ESCAPE INJURIES WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Tourists from Wheeling, W. Va.
of City

Four persons escaped injury at monday when a Buick sedan crashed into a 1935 Buick car two miles west of Marion on the Harding Highway.

The Buick was driven by D. L.
Suhler, of Wheeling, W. Va. but the name of the owner of the Buick was not learned. Suhler was seriously injured by his wife and his 17-year-old son. The Buick car was driven by an Indiana license plate.

Suhler was traveling toward Marion and was trailing a long line of insured cars on the crowded highway. He was directly in front of him. The Buick was suddenly and came almost to a stop. In order to avoid hitting the Buick Suhler swung off directly in front of the Buick, approaching from the opposite direction.

The Buick was considerably damaged by the collision and was brought to a stop for repairs. The Buick was a 1935 model.

MYSTERY WITNESS BREAKS SILENCE

Cleveland, Aug. 11—The mystery witness whose testimony may send the slayer of Don M. Mellett to the gallows broke his silence today in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

"I am afraid to say anything," he said with a shifty glance that took in his whole surroundings in the federal building here. "Sunday night two men drove up to my house and called me out.
One of them said 'If you tell anything
we will bang you up.'"

About a week before Mellett was shot some friends of mine drove up to my house and asked if I wanted to go to Cleveland.

"I said I did."

"When I got into the car, they introduced me to a man who they said

REPORT PROSECUTOR THREATENED BY MAZER

Canton, Aug. 11—The Canton Daily News today says that Louis Mazer, accused murderer of Don M. Mellett, is reported to have visited the home of Attorney Norman F. Clark, former Canton police court prosecutor, within the last two weeks and threatened to put the young attorney, where he will never talk again, if he did not bequiesce as to the activities of the Canton vice ring.

Mazer, fed by authorities to be the owner of the Ford handled, resulting that was used in the assassination today will be asked by District Attorney A. F. Henshaw in Cleveland to tell everything he knows in connection with the crime.

While officials were speaking to Cleveland with the warrant charging him with murder, it was learned that two other persons on fire degree murder charges were not expected until Friday.

Evidence Comes Swiftly

Evidence that is accumulating by leaps and bounds however may force the hands of investigators and bring about arrests before then it was said.

Action dormant for a month in the Mellett murder today was ripping its way through a wall of mystery and political and social entanglements and before the week ends at least two other men are expected to stand charged with the crime of murder—first degree.

They now face according to officials conducting the inquiry a mass of evidence in the crime that startled America and reverberated to the far corners of the earth.

Mazer According to evidence gathered by Joseph R. Bosch, Chicago attorney, and Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, and by federal authorities at Cleveland is alleged to have brought Pat McDermott and Steve Koschok, an informant being held here to a Canton from Massillon about a week before the murder.

Mazer according to the evidence which officials declared today was corroborated by several reliable witnesses, the informers' story had been hired to go Mellett, about the slaying of the Mellett home several times.

Mazer several of the witnesses who was seen in close proximity to the Mellett home within a short time before the fatal shots were fired.

Automobile Identified

The automobile has also been identified as one that was seen in the neighborhood.

Warrants for the 'pay-off' man and in alleged trigger man are expected Friday. At least one other warrant charging several persons with complicity may be issued. Authorities, however, were of the opinion they would arrest on alleged accomplices until the case had gone to the Stark County grand jury.
They admitted at the same time they might be forced to go through with new arrests before grand jury action.

Mazer the affidavit for whose arrest was signed by Michael Glenn Indiana detective working with Joseph R. Bosch was first implicated by Steve Koschok, the informer who turned out to be the alleged plot after he claims he was hired to attack Mellett.

"GLITTER"

A STORY OF YOUTH AND LOVE

BY KATHARINE BRUSH

CHAPTER XVII

which to overcome this feeling before his companions could direct it and begin to "kid" him. He was now, as always, eager to seem to enjoy the things that they enjoyed—to be a good fellow, no matter what secret shivers of distaste it cost him.

He looked about him, planning quickly from one table to the next. If you let your eyes rest long on any one spot in a place like this you acquired a tingling all-over. After a moment he gave a barely perceptible jump and then almost, not quite, cried out.

Brad Hathaway! Sitting alone at a table in a distant corner. He was old, bald, who never drank, who never danced, who never lived! . . .

Brad leaned back in his chair, feeling suddenly shaken and tired and a little old. Alone. When you came to a Black and Tan with a crowd, that was one thing. You were right in the thick of it, being devilish in a different way. You meant no evil. But when you came alone, a sneak in the night, that was something else again. . . . Brad got up.

The others were watching a woman in a striped dress and red stockings. They were making vulgar comments among themselves. None of them had discovered Brad as yet, and Jack became determined on the instant that none should discover him. "I'll have to let him know we're here," he told himself. "I'll have to get him out somehow—or the whole college will be talking about it in the morning."

As though this thought had traveled with incredible swiftness across the dusty air, Brad turned his head and saw them. And if Jack had had any doubts in his mind as to Brad's guilt, he lost them now. Brad rose instantly and moved along the far side, his head bent low, his hat on, shading his face. . . . In a moment he had vanished through the outer door.

"Presumably he didn't know me," Jack thought, blinking on like a criminal. "If it was anyone else I wouldn't care, but Brad—why, it's the love of your life in God!"

He pushed back his chair and stood up. "I'm going," he said gruffly.

Attention centered on him then, and voices plattered against his ears. "What's going on? Why, we just got him!" "What's the big idea?" "What's the matter, Jack, got cold feet or something?" "Yah, the boy is going to go south on us."

They were kidding him, but it didn't matter now. Nothing mattered except Brad. "Got to go," he insisted. "Damn place makes me sick."

But when he was outside he thought, "Now that was dumb." Head didn't want to see him—why am I following him like that? He was relieved for Brad's sake that he did not encounter him anywhere about the building nor in the yard where the cars were parked. "Probably had Eunice's coupe and driven home to it," he decided.

He would not go back into the dance hall. He felt that he never wanted to see it again. He waited a few minutes, to give Brad a fair head start; then he drove back to town slowly, his face a drawn white oval above the steering wheel.

When he and Brad met accidentally in a stationery store a few days later, both of them behaved as though they had not seen one another in weeks.

EMON JUICE BEST TO WHITEN SKIN

The only barbers way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, soft and beautifier. Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon juice into the face, neck, arms and so. It can not irritate. Famous go beauties use it to bring that in, youthful skin and rosy white complexion; also as a freckle, sun and tan bleach. You must mix a remarkable lotion yourself. It is not to be bought ready to use because sets best immediately after it is prepared. —Adv.

unhappy conversation, but he was glad at least that he had. And because of Brad's sister.

Not a girl he'd ever fallen in love with, he told himself even if he were not already so much in love with Yvonne that no other girl on earth mattered. Just a person he explored. Her intimate name was Peg, and her vitality was unexhaustable, and she was famous from Cape Cod to the North Shore as the girl who had once captured a live goldfish from a fountain in a hotel lobby and swallowed it whole (to mention only one of numerous astonishing escapades). She was piquant rather than pretty—"cute" was the adjective invariably applied by courtiers of both sexes—with light chip-pel hair, indigo eyes, an upturned nose that seemed to be eternally sniffing some delicious odor, and the figure of a little boy.

The Allen's dwelt in one of those houses on Beacon Street that look as though only four feet, dedicated maiden ladies in black tulle should come into or go out of them. Rona himself fitted this atmosphere, but Peg loved it. She was to it an unpardonable anomaly, like a saucy young man at a funeral. . . . Jack spent five days there, and lively days they were. They began with breakfast at noon, and proceeded thence at a spanking pace through matinee, skating parties, nocturnal parties, tea dances and roadhouse dances, back to bed again at three or four or thereabouts. To all festivities Jack assented. Peg, by mutual agreement and with wholehearted disregard of her part of "doves," prearranged, and Rona and some lovely moon around-painted them.

Jack liked Peg tremendously for her dash and her recklessness and perpetual high spirits. It was not until the third day of his visit that he discovered a serious side that made him like her all the better.

In the afternoon of that day there fell a slight hail in earnest, and she demanded that he come and talk to her in the Republic's Retreat.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

The breath of a beloved Spring was in the air as I left Philip Veritron's office, and with the capture of the season, a strong wind which had spoiled the day had died down as suddenly as it had come. With the out-of-doors about me, I walked softly to the nearest point where I could catch a bus going up the Drive and was fortunate enough to mount to the top just as the occupant of the front right-hand seat—my favorite station—was getting out.

I was in that relaxed mood which comes after the happy denouement of some undertaking the outcome of which has been totally unexpected. My first task under the direction of the great producer had been successfully accomplished and had won great his approval. I was to have a whole week's rest before I began the next piece of work, and as I leaned back in my seat, the smooth rhythmic movement of the bus and the kaleidoscope of traffic upon the street below unrolling before my eyes seemed to assure me that my vacation had begun.

The word "vacation" brought a smile to my face. Surely new worries and cares were granted a week of leisure after so comparatively short a task as mine had been. Ethically, I knew that I was entitled to it, for I had devoted almost every waking minute to the task and robbed my sleeping time in the bargain. But pushing through my consciousness as persistently as a weed through the first moist soil of Spring was the memory that the house which Philip Veritron had given me had not long ago together a reward for the successful completion of my task. I did not believe, for instance, that a man new to his employ and displaying equal zeal would have been favored thus signally.

When I arrived at home, I found Lillian in my living-room industriously scribbling. She did not look up as I entered, and I knew that she was working out some plan to use with one of the advertising sketches for which she has a steady demand. Knowing that unless I spoke to her directly, I should not disturb her, I removed my hat and coat, hung them up, and sitting down in a low chair near her, I picked up a book and tried to read. But I had no idea of the words upon the pages I turned and I was glad indeed when Lillian threw down her pencil with a vicious little exclamation of "There, that's just the way you're doing!" and looking up she fastened her astonished gaze upon me.

"How long have you been there?" she demanded.

"Probably ten minutes," I replied, smiling. "If I'd been a Paris Apache planning to steal your soul, I wouldn't have had any difficulty getting them."

"No, your difficulty would have come when you tried to get something done in a paragraph," she retorted dryly and with truth, for since her separation from Harry Underwood who demanded earthly display, she has worn but the simplest of ornaments.

"But don't waste time discussing my little work," she said impatiently. "I'm here. I didn't tell you I was coming, because I didn't want any slightest hint to distract you, but now I warn you I'm inimitable."

"Nevertheless, you're going to wait until—"

"I know a cup of tea," she retorted, "and it's all provided for. I took that liberty. Katie has everything ready except the boiling water, and if she heard you come in, she already has the kettle on. Junior is asleep in your bedroom, where Katie can keep an eye on him, only waiting your return to come in and join the party, so give your signals and converse your conference."

JIM DUGAN

EVERY building up of a heavyweight match brings about greater difficulties. Fans still recall the terrible mass made out of the Dempsey-Gibbons battle in Shelby Motel before it finally came off. There was a constant warning before the Dempsey-Kirgo scrap with various factions trying to stop it. Back in 1910 when Johnson and Jeffries met, Richard met with difficulties on every hand and finally had to move his site altogether.
